Airi: "Harmony without chords"

Create your own combination of chords (2-3) meaning just a pile of tones, without any connection with the theoretical facts you might already know about triads for example. Listen to the sounds of your tones. Write them down and create your own scale of the chords you created. That's the only material you need for your new song!

Katja, improvising with "wrong notes"

Find an easy song that you already know and can play with your instrument. Now try playing it and this time it's forbidden to use any correct notes: only the rhythm is the same, keep on playing and avoid the correct notes everytime! This exercise can also be made by writing.
